

Congestive Heart Failure?

You May Qualify

Do you or someone you care about suffer from Congestive Heart Failure? If so, you or they may be able to participate in a clinical trial of an investigational medical device designed to improve heart strength. This device is used specifically to treat congestive heart failure patients whose conditions are not improved by medical treatment. To find out if you qualify, call toll-free 888-308-1380.

All participants will receive study related treatment, exams and tests, all at no cost, and may qualify for reimbursement for time and travel to our site in San Gabriel. Participants do not need medical insurance.
